

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An easily transportable and installable shelving system suitable for display of books and other objects at trade fairs, retail stores, schools, libraries, offices, and/or residential environments comprised of two vertical side panels with slots, holes, or connectors for a series of pairs of horizontal poles offset from one another in both vertical and depth position such that a fabric panel suspended between the members of each pair of poles creates an angled easel against which the objects to be displayed can be positioned.